requirements of 35-14-202, except that provisions that would not be required to be included in restated articles of incorporation may be omitted from the articles of incorporation. If the converted entity is a domestic limited liability partnership, its application for registration must satisfy the requirements of 35-10-701, except that the articles of incorporation or application for registration, as applicable, do not need to be signed.

(7) In addition to the requirements of subsection (5), the articles of conversion may contain any other provision not prohibited by law.

(8) A conversion takes effect when the articles of conversion are filed in the office of the secretary of state or at a later date and time specified in the articles of conversion, which may not be more than 90 days after the date of filing.

(9) This section only allows a domestic limited liability company to convert to a domestic corporation or a limited liability partnership.

NEW SECTION. Section 2. Effect of conversion of limited liability company to domestic corporation or limited liability partnership. (1) When a conversion becomes effective:

(a) all property owned by and every contract right possessed by the converting limited liability company remain the property and contract rights of the converted domestic corporation or limited liability partnership without transfer, reversion, or impairment;

(b) all debts, obligations, and other liabilities of the converting limited liability company remain the debts, obligations, and other liabilities of the converted domestic corporation or limited liability partnership;

(c) the name of the converted domestic corporation or limited liability partnership may be but need not be substituted for the name of the converting limited liability company in any pending action or proceeding;

(d) if the converted entity is a domestic corporation, its articles of incorporation and bylaws become effective;

1 property in accordance with the terms of the plan of conversion, and the members and transferees of interests
2 of the converting limited liability company are entitled only to the rights provided to them by those terms and to
3 any contractual appraisal rights they may have under the articles of organization or the operating agreement of 4 the converting limited liability company; and

5 (g) the converted domestic corporation or limited liability partnership is:

6 (i) incorporated or created under and subject to the provisions of provisions of Title 35, chapter
7 14, in the case of a converted domestic corporation and the provisions of Title 35, chapter 10, applicable to a
8 limited liability partnership in the case of a converted domestic limited liability partnership;

9 (ii) the same entity without interruption as the converting limited liability company; and

10 (iii) considered to have been incorporated or created on the date that the converting limited liability
11 company was originally organized.

12 (2) Except as otherwise provided in the articles of incorporation of a domestic corporation or the 13 organic law or organic rules of a domestic limited liability partnership, an interest holder of the converting limited
14 liability company who becomes subject to interest holder liability with respect to a domestic corporation or 15 limited liability partnership as a result of the conversion has the interest holder liability only with respect to 16 interest holder liabilities that arise after the conversion becomes effective.

17 (3) Except as otherwise provided in the organic law or the organic rules of the converting limited
18 liability company, the interest holder liability of an interest holder in a converting limited liability company that
19 converts to a domestic corporation or a limited liability partnership who had interest holder liability with respect
20 to that converting limited liability company before the conversion becomes effective is as follows:

21 (a) The conversion does not discharge that prior interest holder liability with respect to any interest
22 holder liabilities that arose before the conversion became effective.

23 (b) The provisions of the organic law of the converting limited liability company continue to apply to 24 the collection or discharge of any interest holder liabilities preserved by subsection (3)(a) as if the conversion
25 had not occurred.

26 (c) The interest holder has the rights of contribution from other persons that are provided by the 27 organic law or the organic rules of the converting limited liability company with respect to any interest holder
