The purpose of the testimony is to assist a court in determining whether the continued custody of the child by or the return of the child to the parent or Indian custodian is likely to result in serious emotional or physical damage to the child.

(2) The parties may not waive the requirement for the qualified expert witness testimony. The court may accept a declaration or affidavit from a qualified expert witness in lieu of testimony only if the parties have so stipulated on the record and the court is satisfied that stipulation is made knowingly, intelligently, and voluntarily.

To the extent possible, the petitioning party shall use an individual preferred by the tribe. The petitioner shall file a declaration with the court describing the efforts the petitioner made under this subsection to ~~identity~~ identify a qualified expert witness.

(3)(4) A qualified expert witness must be qualified to testify regarding whether the child's continued custody by the parent or Indian custodian is likely to result in serious emotional or physical damage to the child and must be qualified to testify as to the prevailing social and cultural standards of the Indian child's tribe.

The party seeking to terminate parental rights shall demonstrate by proof beyond a reasonable doubt that it has engaged in active efforts to prevent the breakup of the Indian family.

(2) The court shall make written findings that the petitioning party has provided active efforts and the efforts must be documented in detail in the record.

(3) If the department is involved in the child custody proceeding, active efforts must include assisting the parent, parents, or Indian custodian through the steps of a case plan and with accessing or developing the resources necessary to satisfy the case plan.

4 (c) an Indian foster home licensed or approved by an authorized non-Indian licensing authority; or

5 (d) an institution for children approved by an Indian tribe or operated by an Indian organization that

7 (3) In the absence of good cause to the contrary, in an adoptive or other permanent placement of 8 an Indian child, preference must be given to a placement with one of the following, in descending order of 9 priority:

10 (a) extended family members;

11 (b) an Indian family of the same tribe as the Indian child;

12 (c) another Indian family.

13 (4) Notwithstanding the placement preferences listed in subsections (2) and (3), if a different order

1 child custody proceeding and the court.

2 (b) The party seeking departure from the placement preferences bears the burden of proving by
3 clear and convincing evidence that there is good cause to depart from the placement preferences.

4 (c) A court's determination of good cause to depart from the placement preferences must be made
5 on the record or in writing and must be based on one or more of the following considerations:

6 (i) the request of one or both of the Indian child's parents on attestation that they have reviewed
7 the placement options, if any, that comply with the order of preference provided for in subsections (2) and (3);

8 (ii) the request of the child, if the child is of sufficient age and capacity to understand the decision
9 that is being made;

10 (iii) the presence of a sibling attachment that can be maintained only through a particular
11 placement;

12 (iv) the extraordinary physical, mental, or emotional needs of the Indian child, including but not
13 limited to specialized treatment services that may be unavailable in the community where families who meet the 14 placement preferences live; or

15 (v) the unavailability of a suitable placement after a determination by the court that a diligent
16 search was conducted to find suitable placements meeting the preference criteria, but no suitable placement
17 was found. For the purposes of this analysis, the standards for determining whether a placement is unavailable
18 must conform to the prevailing social and cultural standards of the Indian community in which the Indian child's 19 parent or extended family resides or with which the Indian child's parent or extended family members maintain
20 social and cultural ties.

21 (d) A placement may not depart from the preferences based solely on the ordinary bonding or 22 attachment that developed from time spent in a nonpreferred placement.

23 ~~(d)~~(e) A placement may not depart from the preferences based on the socioeconomic status of any 24 placement relative to another placement.

25 (f) The obligation to engage in a diligent search for a preferred placement is ongoing throughout
