

CONCURRENCE IN SENATE AMENDMENTS

ACR 194 (Pacheco)

As Amended June 30, 2026

Majority vote

SUMMARY

Recognizes August 26, 2026, as Women's Equality Day and its historic importance to women's rights, including the battle to attain those rights in the past, present, and future.

Senate Amendments

Made a minor, technical change.

COMMENTSAccording to the Author

In 1920, the ratification of the 19th Amendment secured women's right to vote in the United States. In 1964, the Civil Rights Act strengthened protections against employment discrimination. In 1972, Title IX prohibited sex-based discrimination in education. And yet, despite these hard-fought advances, women in 2026 still earn only 88 cents for every dollar earned by men. ACR 194 recognizes this ongoing disparity and affirms that women's participation and contributions are essential to economic progress. By proclaiming August 26 as Women's Equality Day, this resolution honors the history and achievements of the women's rights movement while highlighting the work that remains to close persistent gaps in equality, opportunity, and pay.
