SUMMARY:

FISCAL EFFECT:

Negligible costs to CDSS.

COMMENTS:

1) Purpose. According to the author:

It is essential that licensing and oversight agencies have the most-up-to-date information on administrators of licensed care facilities for adults. State law establishes various timelines to update licensee information ranging from 10 to 30 days. When these changes in information result from organizational changes or employment changes, it may take the organization longer than 10 days to identify a new contact. This bill extends the deadline for updating an email contact for licensing purposes from 10 days to 12 days.

This bill is supported by the California Assisted Living Association. There is no known opposition.

2) Background. The Community Care Licensing Division within CDSS is charged with licensing and regulating a variety of community care facilities. These facilities include an array of programs and settings, such as adult residential facilities, residential care facilities for the elderly (RCFEs), foster family agencies, foster family homes, adult day programs, social rehabilitation facilities, transitional shelters, group homes, runaway and homeless youth shelters, and others. As a part of CDSS' regulatory oversight, the department maintains various information and requires licensed entities to notify it of changes. These changes may include staffing changes, incident reports, and communication information. This bill extends the timeline from 10 days to 12 days for an adult community care or residential care facility to notify the department of a change to the facility's email address of record.
